Case Study

Singapore, 46 Penjuru Lane

Feedback

Schneider Electric provided feedback after the installation of the system; they explained how impressed they were and how well the system had been received by the workers in the port.

They expressed that ZoneSafe positively impacted on safety straight away and that the reality was that there was a real need for this system more than had first been realised.

They were surprised how the system also increased staff morale and that employees expressed they felt a greater sense of appreciation and care.

Schneider Electric implemented extensive training of the ZoneSafe system and adopted established training methods for all staff members.

Since installation Schneider Electric have focused their efforts to create a culture addressing the importance health and safety and have implemented mandatory transponder use establishing it as part of their workers PPE.

Conclusion

Automation Support Services continue to work together with other companies to create safe working environment and to reduce the risk of accidents by implementing ZoneSafe systems.
